HARDING SEES DANGER TO INDUSTRY IN WAY DEMOCRATS TINKER IT

Wants to Avoid a 'No Hour Day' for Business and Workers in U. S.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Sept. 21.—"The excess profits tax, if it tends to bring on unemployment and the 'no hour day' is a menace to the employees of America," says Senator Harding, Republician candidate for president, in a copyrighted interview printed this morning

in a special commercial edition in-guaranteed by the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

"If we are to guarantee the workers and producers of America against the 'no hour day' we must go forward with a clear business policy.

"American business is not big business.

"It is the bread and butter concern

of every man, woman and child of America.

"Our first task must be to remove the fears and irritations put upon

American business by war powers retained by a centralized, dictatorial, unrepresentative administration which

* * * but tinkered awkwardly with our economic structure in matters of taxation and by fruitless interference.

This tinkering did little to maintain our high standards of business honor, little to curb profiteering or keep down the prices of necessities like sugar.

Staples Went Upward.

"On the contrary as every housewife knows staples like coal and sugar

have been tinkered upward and not downward.

"Taxation must be readjusted as soon as we can pick up the task, so that we shall not continue the penalty

upon initiative and production.

"I declare that much of the income received from such taxation may be saved by governmental economy. We have had an orgy of prodigal waste.

Instead of meeting the need the waste

undinefficiency has been piled high.

"A reorganization of the administrative government upon business principles and a budget would have to use at least 25 per cent of our current national expenses.

"Our tariff needs readjustment, not only for the better balanced protection of our industries, but to save our agricultural production where foreign competition under government subsidy or under cheap labor threatens its safety."

TWO POLICE ARE SHOT; REPRISALS VISITED IRISH

Balbriggan Wrecked
and Two Civilians Killed in Attack.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Dublin, Sept. 21.—Auxiliary police forces last night wrecked the town of Balbriggan, near here, in retaliation

for the shooting of two police officers

there earlier in the evening when one

was killed and one seriously wounded.

Two Civilians Killed

Shortly after midnight uniformed men appeared in the streets, evidently on reprisals for the shooting of the police officials. They immediately proceeded to wreck the town.

The public houses were entered and set on fire, as well as numerous private homes, whose occupants were given

little time to dress before the buildings were burned. It is reported that the two civilians who were killed, a dairy man and a barber, were dragged from their houses, bayoneted and then shot.

Altogether twenty-eight residences are reported to have been burned to the ground.

OTHER REPRISALS

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Belfast, Sept. 21.—After a display

by Ulster volunteers today armed and disguised men in uniform attacked

several premises in Carrick-on-Shannon, County Leftrish, and caused considerable damage with rifle fire and bombs. Reports from Scariff, County

Clare, state that reprisals have been taken on that village for the wounding of two constables.

Fine Weather Brings General Market Sag

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Downward swings in the value of all commodities on change continued today as a result of fine weather to ripen corn. Besides, receipts of old corn were of large volume. Wheat opened fairly steady but soon gave way to the bearish influence of corn. Wheat prices which at the outset varied from 3c to 4c decline to 4c advanced with Dec. 2.39 to 2.40 and March 2.34 to 2.35, were followed by a decided setback all around.

Persistent selling of wheat in small amounts forced radical breaks later, but country offerings remained light. The close was heavy 7/4 to 8 1/4c net lower, with Dec. 2.32 to 2.32 1/2 and March 2.26 1/2.

Weather conditions for corn were reported so favorable that in one section of Iowa 90 per cent of the crop was already safe from frost. In view of such advices, the market after opening unchanged to 1 1/4c lower, Dec. 1.07 1/2 to 1.07 1/4, underwent soon a general sag.

Prices of deferred deliveries dropped to the lowest level yet this season. Longs were free sellers. The close was unsettled 3/4 to 2 1/4c net lower, with Dec. 1.05 1/2 to 1.05 1/4.

Oats were governed by the action of corn, starting a shade to 3c down, and subsequently became weaker.

Provisions lacked support, especially

"Peel your onions and shed a tear,
For pickling time is drawing near."
To say nothing of lots of canning and preserving of all fruits and vegetables.

It means busy days for the housekeeper but a thrifty feeling and a well-stocked larder.

Some pickles and chili sauces are made without cooking. This usually means a longer process and standing from day to day but the result is worth it.

COLD CHILI SAUCE.

1 peck tomatoes.
2 cups chopped onions.
2 cups chopped celery.
2 cups granulated sugar.
½ pound white mustard seed.
½ cup salt.
2 teaspoons black pepper, ground.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
6 chopped mangos.
2 quarts vinegar.

Wash tomatoes. Cut and put in a bag to drain over night. In the morning remove from bag and mix thoroughly with other ingredients.
Store in a covered crock.

COLD TOMATO CATSUP.

1 peck ripe tomatoes.
3 roots horseradish.
1 cup chopped onion.
4 heads celery.
½ cup salt.
1 cup sugar.
2 red peppers.

1 tablespoon black pepper, ground.
1 cup mixed mustard seed.
1 quart vinegar.

Peel tomatoes. Grate horse-radish root. Chop all ingredients very fine.
Mix well and can in Mason jars.

Cucumber pickles are made without cooking, and are very good.

OIL PICKLES.

100 cucumbers (green but medium size).
1 quart onions.
½ pound mustard seed.
½ pound celery seed.

1 teaspoon black pepper.
1 cup sugar.
2 quarts vinegar.
1 pint olive oil.

Slice onions and cucumbers.

Sprinkle with salt and let stand over night. In the morning drain. Mix dry ingredients with vinegar and stir until dissolved. Beat oil gradually into vinegar. Pour over pickles and put in a covered crock to keep.

You can't afford to lose your temper no matter how bad it is. MARY.

CHURCH NOTES.

METHODIST MENTION.

Both services on Sunday were well attended. At the morning service Miss Marjorie Slothower sang a very fine solo. At the evening hour Miss Ione Scott brought a helpful message in song.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30.
Subject, "The Book and Its Church." Miss Ione Scott will sing a solo. We cordially invite you to this hour of study and prayer.

Robert Caughey was elected to represent the local church at the Laymen's Association which meets at Rockford during the coming session of the annual conference. Mr. C. C.
Huntz was elected as alternate.

Next Sunday will be the last of this conference year. The pastor will give a short report of the work of the church for the year. We want that every part of our work shall be perfected.

Has any member a voucher for any benevolent work done during the year? If so will you hand such to the pastor as it will count on the giving of our congregation for the year.

The League is planning for some very interesting meetings during these next few months. All young folk will find it to their interest and profit to attend.

Conference begins on Wednesday of next week.

TURN TO NATURE'S WAY FOR HEALTH

Re-Open Tomorrow--

Last Saturday the Rock River Restaurant opened its doors to the general public. Its three proprietors, two of whom were old restaurant men, had planned to take care of their business with the aid of their wives. At 12, noon, on the opening day the entire dining room was filled to capacity. Not being prepared to take care of such a large crowd many people were forced to leave unserved and even those that remained were not given the service which we had intended—and to add to our misfortune the gas which we had depended upon, failed us. We have now secured the services of another chef, together with those of a high class pastry cook, as well as several experienced waitresses. With this addition to our force we will be able to properly serve as many people as would care to patronize us.

To those of you who were kind enough to be on hand the opening day we wish to extend our warmest thanks and assure you that when we reopen tomorrow we will be equipped to give you the food and service which will characterize our Restaurant as the finest eating house in Northern Illinois.

Yours truly,

ROCK RIVER RESTAURANT

and afterwards to command." This sounds unanswerable, but like many other maxims it may mislead.No child should be the tyrant of the household, and much is gained when little children learn to fall into the routine of a well-ordered home. A time to go to bed, a time to rise, a time for meals, for work, for play, and a time for cleaning up. The more this seems to the child like a part of the very nature of things, the more smoothly life will run for everybody, the less occasion there will be for a clash of wills, and the better kind of conscience the child will carry through the rest of his life.But obedience to the mere whim of teachers, parents or older children is not a thing to be valued highly. It makes for despotism.The ultimate problems of life is the problem of living fully, getting along with people, and getting the most out of nature, instead of falling a victim to her inexorable laws. One must obey the laws of Nature and if he is to live with others he must respect the conventions of society. But outside of an army—perhaps even in it—the less people think of giving and taking orders, the better chance they have of working together; and the parent who insists on obedience for its own sake does less for his child than the one who shows and cultivates a spirit of sympathy and mutual understanding.*

myself as I thought you must see me. I kept telling myself that if I could get home without being found out, I never get trapped by a philanderer again!"

"How did you leave the bathhouse?"
"At the regular exit, opposite where I went in. I left with a crowd of girls. I hurried up the hill from the beach with them, hoping Ives wouldn't notice me in the bunch. But he did! I couldn't help looking back from the platform half way up the bank. I saw Ives on the broad walk. He was looking straight at me. He was starting to motion to me, I thought, as if to let me know he was waiting. I saw him stagger—I heard the sound of a shot. I stood still and saw him turn half around. Then he went down."

"You poor child!" I murmured.

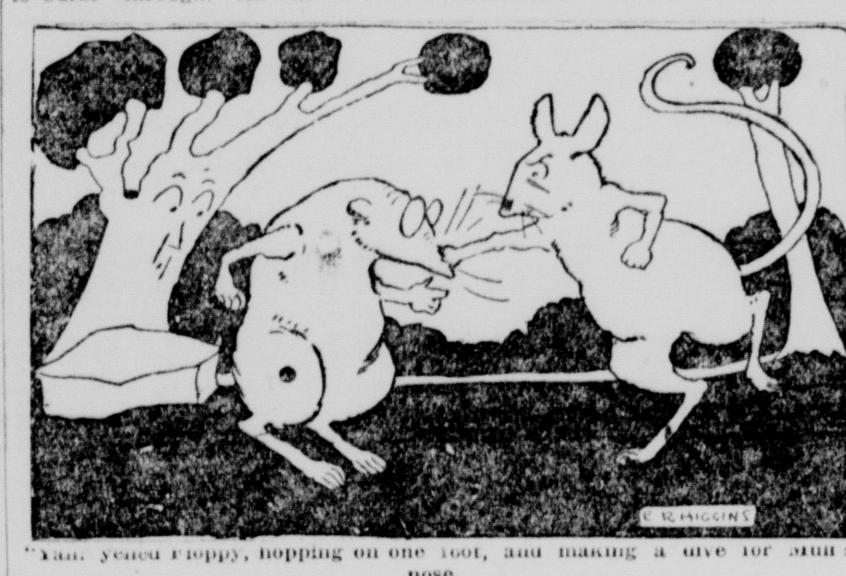

"The whole world seemed awful still after that single shot. I couldn't take my eyes from the figure stretched on the walk. Then people crowded around it and hid it from me. At the people on earth seemed to come from the water and from behind trees and out of autos, and from under the umbrellas on the sand. I discovered that I was standing quite alone on the hillside. And I was afraid. Because I was the only person in the crowd who had an appointment with Ives. I was afraid. It seemed to me everybody knew I hadn't kept the appointment. They seemed to be saying that if I had, Ives wouldn't have been killed."

This idea proved too much for Ann. She collapsed and I had to hunt up the smelling salts again.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

THE QUARREL

If Nick had waited a little longer to see what would happen to the line of earth he was watching move suspiciously away from the Meadow Grove schoolhouse, instead of going off to make a report to Mr. Mole and Mr. Mouse, he would have seen the line suddenly stop near a flat stone, and the ground around quiver and shake as though a volcano were about to burst through. All at once it cracked open and two little gray furry figures rolled out into the sunlight, pummelling each other most awfully. "So you're too good to eat worms!" cried Muff Mole, reaching for another punch at Floppy Field-Mouse, but missing him.

"Yah!" yelled Floppy, hopping on one foot, and making a dive for Muff's nose. "Worms are only good for folks with no tails. Why don't you wear one behind you?" And he waved his own tail like a triumphant banner.

"I don't know!" Ann answered: "I was worried, I guess, and in such a hurry to get away from the beach, Jane, I was perfectly frantic, I think. I wanted to hide where Ives couldn't find me. And I'm not accustomed to such places, anyway. I just locked the door of the little room and crammed the key into my bag without thinking at all!"

"Maybe you'd better think a little now. What—WHAT are we going to do with it? The detectives will miss it—you may be sure. HOW are we going to get rid of it?"

"You—you hide it somewhere, Jane!—I wouldn't know how!"

"You can't hide it anywhere!" I exclaimed. "It's worse than a razor blade at dispose of!"

"I guess I know!" This from Ann. "Once I had a book mother forbade me to read: I finished it, and then I tried to lose it. I couldn't. I left it on a street car and an obliging man got off and ran a block to return it to me.

I crossed the river and tried to toss it over the bridge but I didn't dare, for fifty persons seemed to be watching me. Jane! Couldn't we bury the key—tonight—in the Lorimer park?"

"And have all the servants wondering why we had gone out there in the

"Here's the key of the bathhouse compartment."

Ann drew from her bag a huge iron key attached to a numbered tag. It was the same as the ordinary hotel combination of key and tag, made of a size which no one would willingly carry around.

"You take it, Jane." Ann dropped it onto a lovely pink satin sofa pillow where it looked shockingly out of place and conspicuous.

Oh Ann! ANN! How could you bring that awful thing here!" I cried as I picked up another pillow and flung it on top of the key.

"I don't know!" Ann answered: "I was worried, I guess, and in such a hurry to get away from the beach, Jane, I was perfectly frantic, I think. I wanted to hide where Ives couldn't find me. And I'm not accustomed to such places, anyway. I just locked the

Engine Crew Saved
As By Miracle in Wreck at Forreston

The wreck on the Illinois Central at North Forreston which took place on Wednesday afternoon was one of the most costly in the history of this division of the road and it was a fortunate one as well, for no one was injured, although Engineer Fishburn and Fireman Green rode the mammoth engine over an embankment. They had no chance to leap to safety for there were flying timbers and twisted iron all round them, while the engine plowed through seven coal cars standing on the track ahead of the approaching train.

When the crash was over, which lasted but five or six seconds, there was a ruined and wrecked engine of the biggest type in the ditch, and along with it was a carload of lard, a car of potatoes, a car of gasoline engines, a car of other merchandise, and seven cars of coal. One had to see the mass of ruins to get an idea of the terrible mixup.

"Open Switch" is Cause

The cause of the wreck is attributed to an open switch, the switch being left open by a member of a crew which was working at the Forreston gravel pit, it is alleged. It is stated that when a train which was switching at the pit went into the pit the switch on the main line was left open and that a short time later the doomed train came down the track, southward bound and ran into the siding where the string of cars was standing. The impact tore up and twisted the rails, and the engine then left the track and rolled over, coming to a standstill with wheels up in the air. Had the engine toppled over twenty feet to the north of the spot it did land, it would have rolled down a 30 foot embankment, undoubtedly killing the occupants of the cab. The engineer and firemen crawled from underneath the engine without having received as much as a scratch as a result of their thrilling experience.

OH MY STOMACH

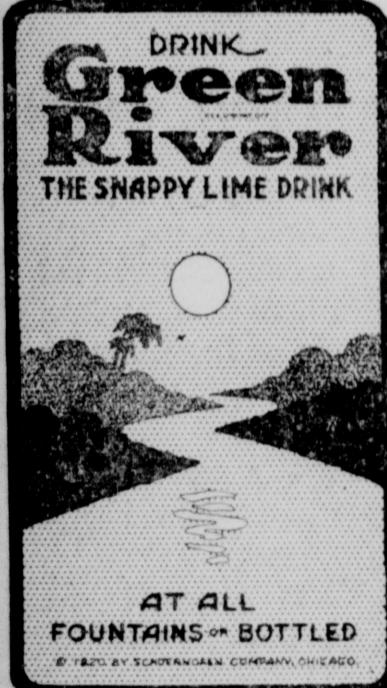

"I had stomach trouble so badly that nothing I ate would digest as it should," said Sadie E. Hamilton, Portland, Me., as she began a remarkable story of the relief she has secured from Argo-Phosphate, the new reconstructive, stomach tonic and system purifier.

"Everything that I ate would lie in my stomach like a lump," she explained. "Gas would form and I would suffer distress all the time. I got so I could hardly keep anything down. Trying to get relief, I had my stomach pumped out, but even this did not help me as I continued just as bad."

I kept hearing so much about Argo-Phosphate that I thought maybe it might help me and I decided to try it. I have taken two bottles and to my surprise I am already feeling fine. I can eat anything and I am not troubled at all."

"I am completely rid of my old stomach trouble that I had for three years. I have not felt so well for years and I am certainly glad to endorse Argo-Phosphate because I want others to be helped by this wonderful medicine."

"The spirit of wanting to help others is what makes suffering men and women give these splendid public endorsements of Argo-Phosphate," said a local druggist. Dispensed by Public Drug & Book Co.

It has been proven for twenty years, by the experience of thousands of protected buildings all over America, during the most severe electrical storms—that Lightning cannot destroy a building protected by Shinn-Flat Lightning Rods.

They are distinctive in design—woven in a flat form—with 36% greater capacity for carrying electricity than old-fashioned rods. All authorities agree that this is the best form of Lightning Rod—the safest and best, also the most attractive and the least conspicuous.

ILLINOIS HEALTH
OFFICIALS WARN
OF GERM SPREADAll Precautions Should Be Taken Against
Return of “Flu.”

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—The telegraphic news from day to day records a few cases of “flu” in various parts of the country, and arouses the fear that there is to be a devastating epidemic of that disease in this country again this fall. Call it “Summer Flu,” “Summer Cold,” or what you will, its development is a matter of considerable concern to the State Health authorities, especially in view of the approach of the season when the disease ordinarily takes on greater severity.

Some health authorities hold that in the light of knowledge of previous epidemics of influenza, we may look for another epidemic wave of serious proportions with the onset of fall.

Others express the belief that the disease has spent its force and that development of any material consequence are quite unlikely the coming season. The Illinois Director of Health is of the opinion that influenza will be of lesser consequence than the two preceding outbreaks.

Leading authorities agree that influenza is spread by contact with infected bearers, and that the chances of infection increase proportionately with the larger number of persons with whom one comes in contact. The really important thing to do at this time is to strictly enforce the reporting and quarantine requirements. Every case or suspected case of “summer flu,” “bad cold,” suspicious bronchitis, pneumonia or undoubted influenza should be immediately reported to the local health authority and by him to the State Department of Health. Every case or suspected case should be effectively isolated, only the necessary attendant being permitted in the sick room. Visiting on infected premises is strictly prohibited. In other words, closely confine the infected person and prevent the well from coming in contact with the patient or attendant. Where isolation is not properly carried out general quarantine must be applied to the premises and all residing thereon. Efficient quarantine is indispensable to control of the disease.

Warnings should be issued against permitting any sick or ailing child or one residing on infected premises from attending school. The responsible local authorities should organize an efficient school medical inspection service.

WHAT A STUD POKER
PLAYER SHE WOULD BE!

New Orleans.—A reporter visited a lunch counter and received a 45-cent check. Going to the cashier he placed it face down with a half dollar on top. Without looking at the check she punched the cash register and placed a nickel on top of the check. “What a stud poker player she would be,” sighed the reporter.
